

Who We Are

Grantmakers in the Arts is the only national association of both public and private arts and culture funders in the US, including independent and family foundations, public agencies, community foundations, corporate philanthropies, nonprofit regrantors, and national service organizations – funders of all shapes and sizes across the US and into Canada.

Our mission is to provide leadership and service that advances the use of philanthropic and governmental resources to support the growth of arts and culture.

What We Do

GIA provides professional development for arts grantmakers through conferences, workshops, and online learning; publications, including the GIA Reader; research and policy work across the field of philanthropy; and tools on our website.

GIA supports a community of practice for arts funders, providing collective learning experiences and networking opportunities for the field to better address the urgent needs of artists and organizations in communities across America.

Member Benefits

Organizational members may select staff or board representatives to receive the following benefits:

- Discounted rates for GIA's annual conference
- Subscription to the GIA Reader, including annual snapshot of arts funding, Foundation Grants to Arts and Culture and Public Funding for the Arts
- Free access to GIA online learning tools and web conferences
- Weekly Member Bulletin email featuring the latest news
- Invitations to national or regional convenings of arts funders reflecting current trends in arts grantmaking
- Members-only section of GIA website and Member Directory
- Opportunity to submit items for possible inclusion in GIA news
- Opportunity to vote for GIA's board of directors
